Body Psychotherapy PUBLICATIONS

Body Psychotherapy Publications is a new venture. It is an imprint dedicated to publishing materials relevant to the training and professional practice of Body Psychotherapy (B-P) and Somatic Psychology.

The intention is to do at least three things:

- Reprint significant articles to do with B-P that are now not so easily accessible; and to reprint these articles in collections with a common theme as an edited book; i.e. The Historical Basis of B-P: About the Science of B-P; About Relational B-P; About Touch in B-P, etc.
- To provide a possible venue for new B-P authors, as sometimes our contributions are not sufficiently well placed within the mainstream, and/or mainstream publishers are really only out to make money, neither of which says anything about the quality of the actual material. This possibility now opens a door for new authors in the field of B-P.
- Providing a way of getting the very rich and varied B-P articles that are ‘out there’, but which are not written in English, to be translated from their language of origin, and then published.

Hopefully, in due course, the flow will go the other way, and people will want to translate these volumes into different languages. We would be very open to that and would be willing to offer copyright permission at very reasonable rates, or to publish our own translated versions.

Looking ahead

Whilst – so far – this is virtually a one-person business, it is very early days, and Vive in Body Psychotherapy Publications are very open to working with other contributors (authors, editors, investors, translators, marketing suggestions, etc.) in a variety of different ways as long as these people are energetic or enthusiastic. Suitable levels of rewards & remuneration will be worked out. The ‘company’ will be set up on a co-operative, work democratic basis.
